Between Us..

RUTH BEAVER

Anne Evans celebrated her sixteenth birthday Friday night with a beautiful dance at the Country Club. When she made plans for the dance she had out-of-town friends she wanted to invite ever for the week end. Her grand-mother, Mrs. Frank Grimes, was to stay with her, so it was really a big job to move, have guests and help with the party all in the space of a day or so. But from the looks of the home when the job was completed you would never have guessed but that she had been in for weeks. The home is one of the most attractive in town and the last word in convenience. Rita Polls seen on the street recently attractively dressed in a black velvet suit with a very new spring hat of black and wearing a pretty camellia that added just the touch of white to complete the outfit. Eloise Morris seen recently in a flame-colored suit also wearing a pretty camellia that blended in with her outfit. The windows are filled with such tempting things for spring and the clerks in the stores telling you they hardly get a box unpacked before they are gone, with our weather like spring so much of the time it gives you the fever to get a new wardrobe. Jack Averitt, telling so enthusiastically about the annual beauty revue the college is having February 2nd. When Jack takes over a job you can always be assured it's going to be just right. He has been two years working out details for this particular revue, and he and his committees are working day and night to make this the best they have ever seen. Mrs. P. B. H. Dudley has returned to Jacksonville, Fla., after spending a few days with her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. L. Johnson.

PITTMAN BURIAL

Graveside Services Held In East Side Cemetery Sunday Afternoon Are Semi-Private

Attended by only a limited circle of friends, and marked by brevity and simplicity, the ashes of Marvin Pittman Jr. were committed to the earth in East Side Cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Arriving by plane in Savannah Saturday afternoon the remains were met by the father and a friend and an undertaker, these brought to Statesboro and the funeral home. Preceding the formal ceremonies, the remains had been placed in the earth and lovely flowers sent in by friends marked the resting place. Officiating in the services were Rev. John S. Hough, pastor of the Statesboro Methodist church, and Rev. T. L. Harnsberger, of the Presbyterian church, both of whom spoke appropriate words.

Young Pittman, age 29, was slain by a band of bandits in the Philippines in December, about which time he was on a scientific expedition. Both Pittman and Dr. Conklin were members of the faculty of the University of the Philippines and had left their homes two weeks before Christmas for the expedition. Their bodies were found two weeks later where they had been slain by natives and left in a shallow ravine.

Marvin Pittman Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Pittman, of Statesboro, was combat flyer in World War I; was shot down by the enemy in the Philippines in December, 1941, and was a German prisoner for more than a year. At the time of his enlistment he was a first year student at the University of Chicago. Upon his return to the states he re-entered the University where he was graduated with honors. At the time of his death he was a professor of Geography at the University of the Philippines.

Besides his parents here, young Pittman is survived by his wife and four-month-old son; one sister, Mrs. G. H. Watkins, of Florence, Ill. A committee of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce has been set up to work out plans for a memorial honoring Marvin S. Pittman Jr.

Buswell and a group of twenty victims from the Baptist Orphanage at Baxley were enjoyable numbers on the program during the morning session. Other appreciated numbers were two addresses by Mrs. Frank Proctor, of Elmer church, and Mrs. J. L. Clements, Jr., of Baxley. A very short statistical account of the work being done at the Baxley home.

MIDDLEGROUND

You certainly don't want to miss the "Old Maid's Convention" being sponsored by the Middleground Partnership Association on February 17. You who saw the "Woman's Wedding" in which the men portrayed all characters will agree it was very funny. Well, this great event is going to be just as entertaining (if not it, ladies!), so start saving your pennies now for an evening of fun.

Mrs. J. I. Smith and Mrs. Homer Smith were among those present at the Bulloch County P-T-A Council held at Leefield.

The Bulloch County P-T-A council met in the school auditorium Friday, February 10th, for a very interesting Founders Day program will be presented.

Mr. Abernathy and Miss Edfield attended the board of directors meeting of the Bulloch County Georgia Service Association held in Mr. Womack's office last Tuesday.

Mrs. Abernathy, Mrs. Paul Hendrix, Misses Mildred Groover and Ruth Lanier and Mrs. Womack attended the recreation program at the community center in Statesboro last week under the direction of Mr. Van Winkle.

In spite of their defeat, Middleground boys and girls played a very interesting basketball game with the Register teams last week. All of us are eagerly looking forward to the other games in which they are going to participate.

We wish you could have seen the assembly program the fifth grade and Miss Lanier presented last week. They did choral readings and had originated a dance to go along with them, which they started the 12th of January on science, with the audience participating, it made us all realize how much attention really needed to be given to science. Boys and girls are certainly interested in cowboys, it seems, so we can't forget the very good program the sixth grade gave to us one week in assembly.

We are certainly proud of our chorus, under the careful supervision of Mrs. Abernathy. On March 3, the elementary music festival will be held, so they are constantly working on songs to be given then. We're hoping for pleasant results.

They also took orders for plastic material to be made at the February meeting.

We are plastic costume jewelry. Mrs. A. C. Anderson and Mrs. O'Neal Rushing served crackers and Coca-Cola.

Einstein Loose Again!

AND NOW AGAIN the papers are beginning to awaken memories of the troubles we have had with Einstein in the past.

Maybe some of you who read these lines will recall that Einstein is the long-haired scientist who some years ago began to unfold the theory that practically everything material and imaginary is inseparably associated with every other element—material or imaginary.

Because that matter was much in discussion, it seemed that a family newspaper ought to be able to go along with the matter in an intelligent participation in the theory, so we turned to our Lincoln Library and read two or three pages of scientific words about the science. These words were longer and more impressive than any we had ever read before, and we turned to Webster to give us the definitions of them—but even then we were left in the dark as to what Einstein had talked about.

In the meantime in our home we began to speak of the problem, and the youngest girl, then in high school, and at the very height of knowledge, told us that relatively had to do with kinship—and that seemed to be understandable. We asked her what could be a problem about kinship, and she amplified thus: "Now, suppose you had married another woman and mama had married another man (which, by the way, had from time to time in youth's early days been thought of), and each of you had had a little girl, the Einstein theory is to know which one of those girls would have been me, and what kin would I have been to the other girl." And we thereupon dismissed Einstein as being too intricate for our understanding.

But today Einstein in on the go again. We are determined not to get involved beyond the surface. There are some deep subjects about which we would as soon be in the dark. It trumps that relatively itself is not so very important, what with the degrees and cross-degrees. Indeed, one's own individuality is sometimes left in the dark throughout life without causing any considerable measure or harm. In the hospital, we frequently we learn that infants, born in groups and mechanized, have their tags swapped and their identity thus obscured to the great distress of parents who have gone into public places instead of staying in their own homes to produce their young. It thus appears that a shadow might threaten for life that youngster who had been mixed in the tag row—but what is the difference? Can it actually hurt a man to be uncertain as to who he really is? We hope this Einstein theory will be dropped before we get "all het up" again in our confused mind!

Denmark Bureau To Hear Noted Speaker

The Denmark Farm Bureau will have as its speaker Dr. Grace Overton, author and speaker, next Tuesday night, C. C. DeLoach, president of that chapter, announces.

Dr. Overton will be in the county during the entire week and only had one night available for the Farm Bureau meetings, which was Tuesday night. Mr. DeLoach was anxious for his group to hear her. The meeting is at 7 p. m. at the Denmark school. Mr. DeLoach has worked out an agreement with the county Farm Bureau officers to invite all the community and county officers to Denmark Tuesday night. R. P. Mikell, county president, thought that the officers might get something from the meeting that could be carried back to the various communities. He urges all these officers to attend if possible.

Clubsters To Assist In Reforesting Of Lands

Bulloch county 4-H Club boys are working with adult farmers in reforesting lands that probably would not produce other crops again this year.

B. L. Williams, an outstanding club leader at Port and one of the better basketball players in the county, has set some three acres to slash pines this winter. B. L. thinks they will make a good bank account in years to come.

Others planting seedlings so far this winter are Arthur Sparks, Norwood Bennett, Billy Phillips and Carl Mallard. These youngsters have planted from a half acre to two acres each.

Last year the clubsters and adults set about 107,000 slash pine seedlings in the county. Indications are they will put out more than that this year.

Recent VD-TB Survey Reveals Health Status

Of the 14,140 persons who took the free blood test and x-ray during Bulloch's recent VD-TB survey, 466 persons were found to be infected with syphilis, it has been announced by the Georgia Department of Public Health. This report places the number of these infected at almost 3 1/2 per cent.

In addition some eighty-two individuals were found with active TB, while 103 others were marked "suspect." The suspicious cases will be under observation until a definite conclusion can be determined. State officials said the tuberculosis rate in Bulloch is about average. The syphilis rate is below the average of other Georgia counties.

Victory Sunday

Statesboro Methodists have designated Sunday, February 12, as "Victory Sunday" in their campaign to raise $25,000 for a new parsonage and making of necessary repairs to the church. It is urged that every member of the church will have made a reasonable cash contribution or pledge to this campaign. Let us make these days count for Christ and His church. This is your church—its success or failure will be determined by your response to its program. May "Victory Sunday" spell "Victory" for Statesboro Methodists in point of attendance and gifts for this most worthy program. We have the members—we have the money. Therefore, let us march on to "Victory." We can, with you co-operation, bring this drive to a successful close on "Victory Sunday."

CHRISTMAS PRESENT

By Shirley Sargent

THE SMALL KITTEN called Tupid watched preparations for Christmas duly. Only the middle boy, Archie Raymond, noticed his apathy. The tree, in all its green splendor, stood tall in the living room bedecked with an increasing number of ornaments.

"Careful," Marcia Raymond admonished her son sharply. "Don't hang those big balls down so low. The kitten will break them."

Gracie Archie lifted, took to a higher bough, drawing in the pungent scent of the pine. Only he saw that the kitten walked slowly under the tree, unaware of the boughs tickling her furry back. His young brother had named the roly-poly butterscotch kitten "Tupid."

Young Billy was easily aroused to fits of anger. His favorite expression, under stress, was a lisp, "You Tupid, you big Tupid!"

Archie, his ten-year-old brother, Joe, and his parents laughed at the little boy's wrath and, because the kitten was slower than the others in Tupid circled and sniffed at the black kitten until he was satisfied. Then his tongue flicked out to lick the kitten.

The litter, they named him, most affectionately, Tupid.

"Archie," Mrs. Raymond was flurried from all the excitement. "That blue globe is much too low. Tupid will get it. I don't doubt," she added pessimistically, "that we will lose half of our globes."

Archie could see that Tupid had no interest either in the swaying boughs or the brilliant-colored fragile balls. For two days Tupid had wandered carelessly about the house and yard. He wasn't playful or friendly and he had stopped purring. Only Archie sensed that the kitten was lonesome for his sisters and brothers and his mother. At first there had been four balls of fur and a proud old alley cat mother. As they grew, they had become playful, pattering swiftly through the house. But now they were all gone, including the mother. Just Tupid was left to keep. Even the black imp with shoe-button eyes had been given away. Tar Baby, who had been the boss of the litter, had been gone barely two days, and Tupid missed him.

"Well," his father's voice boomed again, as he climbed down the ladder. "All done in time for Christmas Eve. Come here, Joe, Archie, you too Billy. I want you to see this fine tree."

Mrs. Raymond switched the lights off and Archie shivered in delighted excitement as the tree blazed, illumined by the strings of lights and balls. The magic moment was shattered by the sharp ring of the doorbell.

A rush of cold air came in as Mr. Raymond flung open the door wide to admit a bundled figure. "My father says I can't keep the kitten," Gerald Parks recited automatically, close to tears. "I have to give it back because it gives me fatherly hay fever." Gerald went out in another rush of frosty air, but not before Mrs. Raymond had pressed a fat candy cane into his mittened hand.

Tar Baby huddled in the middle of the floor. "Watch it, boys," Mr. Raymond warned. "Let's just watch him. He feels strange here now; he'll be all right in a while."

Archie saw Tupid jump from the sofa with a purr of delight. Tupid circled and sniffed at the black kitten until he was satisfied. Then his tongue flicked out to lick the kitten. Tupid's paws caressed him as his tongue washed him. The black kitten stood passive, as Tupid showered his pen-up love on him.

"That, mommy," Billy lisped, "Tupid's kissing him, isn't he?"

"Jim," Mrs. Raymond agreed. "Tar Baby's Tupid's Christmas present."

Mr. Raymond's eyes swept his sons' sweet-smiling faces. "No," he said firmly. "He's our Christmas present too."

TWO-WAY STRETCH

that's strictly inside stuff!

Here is the new 1950 Buick Wildcat, companion body-type to the equally new Roadmaster 130. Both are shorter than last year's 4-door Sedans—yet 4 inches longer in wheelbase. In both, the difference is used to give you real stretch-out room in the rear seat.

What the boys did here really calls for some medals.

We gave them the job of coming up with something that was bigger inside—for room and comfort—longer in wheelbase—always important to good riding qualities—yet unbulky and easy-handling in overall dimensions.

Just look how well this tidy number meets these "impossible" specifications!

Item one—rear-seat cushions are a full foot wider than last year's SUPERS and ROADMASTERS.

Item two—in every dimension—leg-room, head-room, hip-room, shoulder-room—this rear-seat compartment is bigger than previous models—and nearly four inches longer, fore and aft, than other 1950 Buick interiors.

Item three—wheelbases are the longest of our 1950 line. On the SUPERS, it is 125 1/4" instead of 121 1/4"—on the ROADMASTER 130 1/4" instead of 120 1/4".

Yet—and here's where the magic comes in—the whole car is shorter overall. Actually less from bumper to bumper than previous Buicks in these series.
